

EMMA WOULDN'T MISS A BOX HILL PICNIC, AND NEITHER SHOULD YOU!

Plan now for a delightful afternoon of lunch al fresco, tours of the New York Botanical Garden and the opportunity to “talk Jane” with other Janeites. Details follow:

DATE: Saturday, June 11 Rain date: Sunday, June 12

LOCATION: Clay Family Picnic Pavilion at the New York Botanical Garden Bronx, New York

TIME Noon. Admission to the grounds is free from 10-noon; after that, $6 or $3 seniors.

If you choose, you can tour the Botanical Garden's featured exhibit “Spanish Paradise: Gardens of the Alhambra”. This unprecedented exhibition explores the collaboration of sublime nature and dramatic design that created an earthly paradise. Read the works of Federico García Lorca as you stroll the gardens surrounding the Enid A. Haupt Conservatory, enjoy flamenco each weekend, and discover the food and culture of Spain. There is a charge for touring the exhibit.

LUNCH: Bring your own lunch and beverage. If you bring a little extra of something tasty that you've made, you'll be able to exchange treats with others—just watch out for Mr. Woodhouse and his gruel.

TRANSPORTATION: Take Metro-North RR White Plains line to Botanic Garden stop. For directions by subway or car: <http://www.nybg.org/visit/directions.php>.

There is no charge to members and no need to register, just come and join the rest of us—in costume if you choose.

Linda and Meg

Linda Denery and Meg Levin, Co-Coordinator JASNA-NY